The National Co-operative League is one of the endowment and co-operative associations in Illinos against which the Post Office Department recently took action. A number, among them the League of Educators, with principal office at Chicago, commenced a legal light against the action of the department, but the National League issued a notice on Saturday, October 25, to all members that the business would be closed on account of the adverse ruling.

The National League had a plan whereby it was claimed to be possible to realize 199 in six months' time on an investment of $15 by a mutual system of co-operation. The endless chain system was used and the organization, which commenced business in June of this year, had, when it closed last month, 800 members. Fifteen per cent of the receipts was retained for operating expenses and the balance turned into the general fund for payment of endowments when due.

of the Virgin and the Christ child, instead grave of Father Christopher Koenig in St.

Henry's Cemetery. East St. Louis.
Father Koenig died about a year ago. He had been the rector of St. Henry's Church.
East St. Louis, for twenty-seven years and was greatly beloved. In his last illness he asked his friends to erect the statue of the Virgin and the Christ child over his grave.
The statue was completed recently by a St. Louis sculptor. It is of marble.
The ceremonies yesterday afternoon began with vespers at St. Henry's Church. Then the various religious societies of the church formed in line and marched to the cemetery. St. Henry's Church chort, under the direction of Professor J. Goenz, a nephew of Father Koenig, sang several selections. The Reverend Father H. J. Hagen of Belleville, chancellor of the helleville Diocese, delivered a touching address on the virtues of the dead priest. Almost all the East St. Louis clergymen attended the ceremonies. Among the visining clergy were Father Sauer of Belleville, Father Mumbauer of Cahokia and Father Weggmann of French Village.

RAGLAND CENTER OF INTEREST.

Three-Hundred-Barrel Well Discovered in Bath County.

REPURIAC EPECIAL.

Lou sylile, Ky., Nov. 22—The Ragiand fields have held the center of interest from an oil news standpoint this week, though the activity in the Knox and other fields continues unabated. The discovery, however, of a 300-barrel weil of green oil a few miles from a railway station in Bath County and at a cepth of 500 feet, has caused a sussifer that section and leases are being gobbed up at tancy prices.

Another well of green oil had been previously struck on the same farm, which is owned by Tarilon Embry. The oil being declared by excerts to be similar in quality to that in the Pennsylvania and West Virginia fields, the strike is in reality much better than the oil found so plentifully in Knox County and vac.nity.

Sales made in Bath County during the past week show how rapidly values are increasing. Joseph Jones sold for 50.00 the oil and gas rights on a comparatively smail farmer, received $1.000 from James Henderson for his rights. On the farm of Joseph Jones the Lexington Oil and Gas Company has eight good wells, but not of green oil. The Licking River Valley Oil and Gas Company has eight good wells, but not of green oil. The Licking River Valley Oil and Gas Company is now pumpling twelve wells, having this week completed one on the farm of E. W. McKinney.

The excitement at West Liberty, Morgan County, grows apace. Capitalists are therrived from New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and elsewhere and the hotels will not accommodate the propile. The Lekking River Valley Oil and Gas Company, which struck a fine well of green oil on the Burns farm, just on the outskirts of West Liberty, is now getting out timber for a second well on William Kendall's farm. This company has 75 acres adjoining the Burns farm on which derricks will at once be erected. In all this company has 33,00 acres under lease in the Ragland field.
